

REFERENCES

- A.Larvic, V. a. (2012). Epe 2012 Proceeding Of The 2012 International Conference And Exposition On Electrical And Power Engineering. (pp. 314-317). Romania: IASI 1910.
- Ali, W. G. (2011). A semi-autonomous mobile robot for education and research. Journal of King Saud University – Engineering Sciences., 131-138.
- Banzi, M. (2011). Getting Started with Arduino Second Edition. Sebastopol: Make: Book.
- Casey Ross, G. S. (2008). Lights out, conservation on for city's tall towers. The Boston Globe.
- Coltrin, M. &. (2007). Limits on the maximum attainable efficiency for solid-state lighting. Photonic Asia 2007. Gaithersburg: 2008 SPIE Digital Library.
- Danigelis, A. (2008). Discovery News: Sustainable: Street Lights Meet German Engineering. City of Boston.
- Energy, U. D. (2011). International Dark-Sky Association. Retrieved from Light Pollution Wastes Energy and Money: <http://www.darksky.org/light-pollution/energy-waste/>
- Margolis, M. (2011). Aduino Cookbook. Sebastopol: O'Reilly.
- Mathas, C. (2012). Sensing Motion with Passive Infrared (PIR) Sensors. Electronic Products .
- Minns, P. D. (2013). C Programming For the PC the MAC and the Arduino Microcontroller System. AuthorHouse.
- Riener, R. M. (2011). Intelligent street lighting to reduce CO2 emissions. International Journal of Pervasive Computing and Communications, 147-148.
- Wu, Y. C. (2010). Design of New Intelligent Street Light Control System. 8th IEEE International Conference on Control and Automation, 1423-1427.